GYLA applied to the UNESCO concerning the pending amendments to the law on “Cultural Heritage”

As it is known to public, the government of Georgia submitted to the Parliament the draft which introduces amendment to the law on Cultural Heritage and changes significantly applied regulation on cancelation of the status to the monument.

According to the legislative initiative, Paragraph 2 will be added to Article 17, according to which - in exceptional cases, in case of state necessities, removal of the status to the monument (save for those having national category or/and being in the Initiation of the draft to the Parliament caused negative reaction among the significant part of the society. Although number of meetings were held on different levels in terms of the risks associated with the draft, regrettably the draft remains in the Parliament for examination.

Today, GYLA applied to the UNESCO in terms of the challenges and possible negative outcomes associated with the draft.
