On June 17 at the conference hall of Georgian Young Lawyers' Association (GYLA) Memorandum of Understanding was signed between Caucasus University and GYLA. Students of Caucasus University and GYLA attended the ceremony along with university professors. After the official ceremony question and answer session was held, information on different matters was exchanged.

Below see the full text of the memorandum:

Caucasus University and Georgian Young Lawyers' Association (GYLA), enjoying the benefit of the principle of mutual understanding and respect, express their wish to cooperate in order to support raising students of Caucasus School of Law and members of GYLA as highly-qualified professionals, realizing their full personal potential, developing their practical habits and abilities and training lawyers who meet modern demands. Based on the above mentioned, the parties agree on following:

- shared use of GYLA and Caucasus University libraries;
- exchange of educational information;
- joint implementation of certificate programs;
- organizing joint lectures and seminars by foreign experts;
- organizing science conferences and imitated court trials;
- implementing other measures to reach the above listed goals

Arrangement of specific events and implementation of other kind of joint actions shall be regulated according to further negotiations between the parties, on the basis of bilateral agreement.

The parties agree to work according to cooperation based on principles of quality and protection of interests of each other.
